/in order to do sthng/
infinitive

with "results"
better collocation:
"good/bad results"

Maybe "linked" doesn't work here.. Perhaps, "necessary" is what you want to express: "make all the necessary observations" also: better coll. "make observations."

Assignment 1 – CPE class 2020
Patrik Ashby

Beneficial and detrimental traits of an occupation
Occupation: Policeman

In order ~~of~~ to pursuing ~~the~~ his occupation ~~right~~, a policeman should be stoical. Never showing dislike or worry when faced with an unpleasant situation is key and a policeman should also remain calm in such situations in order to successfully solve cases. Alongside that, he/she should be punctual and ~~do~~ make all the linked observations in time, so that key factors of possible investigations won't slip through his/her fingers. Diligence is also beneficial for a policeman, since maintaining persistent work or effort can lead to ~~correct~~ good results. Lastly, the "man of law" should show a natural sense of perception in order to see things clearly and also see "below the surface" of what has not yet been mentioned in investigations.

On the other hand, we often meet policemen that have a very high opinion of themselves and about their abilities. There is nothing worse that a conceited person, when you are in trouble, since such person won't usually listen to what you have in mind. Therefore, ~~this trait of~~ arrogance and boastfulness should always be supressed. In the end policemen are professionals and they should be able to control their emotions. Also, being absent-minded makes the discussed occupation very hard to pursue and not noticing what is happening in life-threatening situations may often be deadly for both the subject and the policeman. In some countries, the law is very strict, and policemen often become easily bigoted, strongly and often unreasonably believing, that they are right. This happens due to the inadequate control from the higher ~~positions~~ levels of justice. Always know your rights when being confronted by a policeman and don't be afraid to contact a person, who specialises in law.

Word count: 277

or simply: "Therefore arrogance + boastfulness...."

Nice work!..
good adjectives, well defended.
comments mostly about collocations, usage

Thanks, —J—