Story - Vit Gadurek

01 / # 1

perfect / past

It all started in a small village on the outskirts of Prague. One afternoon, a local farmer came from his farm to the only square in that village. He did not just come, it looked like he was running for the last hour. While he was trying to catch his breath, the colour of the sky started to change. After a few moments, when other villagers appeared on the square, he started yelling: "There, in the forest. While I was digging the roots, a huge orange-coloured four-headed dragon popped up".

Now, that is the moment, when the panic began. Few women ^{run} to the mayor's office to inform him, while others went to inform their neighbours. Only the mayor managed to keep his head ^{clean} cold and asked one of the women: "Are you sure, he is not just spreading rumours? Dragons are not real, there are just in fairy tales".

While the mayor was thinking and talking to the woman, other villagers started to prepare for the fight. Of course, they did not know how. The miner started to build a wall around his house, the lawyer looked up to books about dragons and it is ^{was} it possible to outlaw dragons from entering a city. On the other hand, the local tailor just did not care. He took a long ^{drag} from his pipe and ^{bluffed} a few tobacco rings. It looked like he is the only one ^{savouring} this time. Then he noticed something. The orange-coloured four-headed dragon appeared above the city.

He was loud, he was spitting fire and most importantly he was huge. And since he was ^{banned} from entering the city and because he was well-educated, he did not enter the city. He just ^{fell} on it. Therefore, because he was huge, the city caught on fire, all the houses were ruined, and everybody died.

Phase: "keep your head clean"

/Puff/

/fell/

Good story. Good vocab.

Some phrases were correct

also... pay attention to tenses,

you keep going between past + present tenses. Consistency is important.

Thanks,

great

Phase: "to catch fire"
