

1 Your first task is to choose five collocations from sheet 1 and write a sentence for each.

- Entirely convinced
- Not all the people are entirely convinced by the steps the governments around the globe are taking.
- Wildly exaggerated

Some voices say that the reactions of them are wildly exaggerated.

- Utterly devastated

But in some countries the daily life is utterly devastated and some compare it to a kind of war.

- Large number

A large number of companies had to decrease their production.

- Deadly boring

Sitting at home alone is deadly boring.

2 use the correct adjective suffix for each word

Alternative	->	alternative
Caution	->	cautious
Collapse	->	collapsible
Detest	->	detestable
Honour	->	honourable
Labour	->	laborious
Loathe	->	loathsome
Hypocrisy	->	hypocritical
Philosophy	->	philosophical
Repel	->	repellable

wasn't able to find anything) ~~repellable~~ (I'm so not sure about this one, I tried googling of course, but 2 adj. poss.

-repellent
-repulsive

good work
Thanks!

3x2

3 choose five of these adjectives and write a sentence using the adj

correctly

• An alternative plan is often called a plan B.

• Collapsible furniture is what you need when you live in a small apartment.

• Creating a face mask without a sewing machine is a really laborious activity.

• Whether this crisis will lead to another war just like Great Depression before WWII is a philosophical question by now.

• His hypocritical behaviour always makes me mad. Can he at least once fulfill his promise?

→ doesn't work (awkward) → maybe a better way of expressing this

"∴ before WWII was new we were a legitimate philosophical question"
