

wrong word here:
to access - to gain entrance to

but the word was assess /

N1

1. to evaluate
(often properly)

2. to determine the
value of sth

assess problem
damage

I suppose you could "assess capabilities" but it's unclear how
in this sentence.

- 1) It is hard to predict how and when the coronavirus epidemic will end.
- 2) * Jack needs to access his capabilities before deciding where to go on a vacation.
- 3) The fact that you are against the visit of my brother does not alter it.
- 4) Why don't we convert our money into gold?
- 5) This team stand a chance to win the game.
- 6) Why don't you take a chance and go snowboarding?
- 7) Just carry on practicing and you will see the results.
- 8) Please, stay on board, do not go ashore during a stop.
- 9) Look, Sarah has fallen, help her up.
- 10) Can you please help me out with an essay?
- 11) The development of medium-sized business has a positive effect on the economy.
- 12) There was a rapid population growth during the last centuries.
- 13) You can gain a lot of experience if you go to this conference.
- 14) If you have any questions just raise your hand.
- 15) We need to change the policy of the company if we want to increase our sales.
- 16) If we want more power, we need to expend our territories.

Good work!
good collocations...
