

Matvei Slavenko / CPZ 3

- non-count / no plural
1. In the absence of evidences, we have to respect the presumption of innocence.
"will soon face s.th (no prep.)"
or
"will soon be faced with s.th"
 2. If the situation doesn't change, the banks will soon face with the liquidity shortages. good use!
 3. A friend in need is a friend indeed.
 4. The famous chutney is made of bananas, raisins, ginger and chili blended together. good "a blending of ingredients"
 5. It seems that the borders between the normal and pathological are blurred, so many modern researchers employ a different approach. good! unclear not distinct
 6. 'Unwearied then were Durin's folk' while, perhaps, they should've been wary of digging too deep.
 7. I sincerely loathe the way I am loath whenever it comes to this problem. (to act) / to do sth / nice! but you need the infinitive after loath.
 8. Remember how he used to hold the Famous-Opinion-of-His? He still clings on to the bollocks! (meaning "nonsense") ~~the~~ vivid image!
 9. Well, it looked like they were made for each and it was the union made in heaven. And then something went wrong. "expression": "a union made in heaven"
 10. The whole thing bears the sign of the artist, the creator.

Nicely done!
Playfully done!
Thanks, P-

Excellent.